

SPRUL

BEYOND BOUNDRIES

Text by Heeseon Choi

A multidisciplinary artist who works primarily on canvas. He freely experiments with diverse materials to capture the essence of humanity and stories of everyday life. Rather than conforming to social standards or trends, Sprul often depicts people who live their lives in simple yet authentic ways. He refers to them as “Hidden Heroes”, and approaches this theme through a variety of artistic and conceptual frameworks.

Sprul actively incorporates modern materials and technologies into his practice, combining the tactile qualities of these substances with traditional oil painting techniques. Through such experimentation and reconfiguration, he moves fluidly between abstraction and figuration, expressing a modern yet contemplative aesthetic and an honest attitude toward life as it is.

His paintings are imbued with humor and organic movement, intertwined with satire and wit that reflect on contemporary society. These elements invite viewers not only to enjoy the visual playfulness of his works, but also pause and reflect-to engage in their own process of thought and emotion.

In this way, Sprul’s art offers a space for both playfulness and introspection, presenting a painterly world that is at once reflective and deeply human.
